

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a method for processing workpiece surfaces (4), whereby capillaries (9) are introduced into the workpiece surface (4), by means of high pressure water jets (8), in order to supply the workpiece (3) with lubricant on application thereof, said capillaries serving as lubricant reservoirs.